Through performance art, the invited artists will create a space of interconnectedness between foreigners and locals. The project constitutes of workshops and live performances where the participants will question and play with the idea of the migrant memory. The project is divided into four parts that each last one week. In the beginning of each week, two artists will meet in order to organize one collective experience (workshop or creative laboratory) and one performance session that will be presented during the last day of the week. The artists will have the autonomy to propose the methodology most convenient for developing their own perspective about body and territory. Everyone interested is welcome to participate in the workshops, and depending on the interests of the performance artists, possibly also in the final performance sessions.
