Kort projektbeskrivelse som forelægges udvalget uredigeret
The exhibition will consist of an immersive audio-visual installation on gallery's ground floor in which a number of screen-printed sculptures are animated by a spotlight and synchronised with scripted audio tracks triggered by the viewer's presence behind the sculptures, that will unfold a poetic spoken word narrative. I will also show the print series the installation takes its imagery from in the upstairs gallery. The exhibition focuses on the idea that individuals within contemporary societies, due to the ubiquity of technology, tend to think about themselves as a kind of technology, which results in individuals' alienation from themselves and the natural world. The exhibition - taking inspiration from the ideas of philosopher and educator Ken Robinson - proposes a re-engagement with nature and horticulture (gardening) as a new metaphor for thinking about ourselves, our societies, and institutions.

Formidling af projektet
Practically speaking, the exhibition will be realized by screen-printing photographic collaged images onto painted and varnished wooden sheets, which will then be cut out using a CNC machine. The sculptures will then be mounted on display stands. I will hire the AV equipment to light the sculptures and synchronize this with audio from a hire company, who will also program and install this equipment. I will also produce screen-prints on paper to show in the upper gallery.
