| Skimmed Words is a dance performance that uses spoken language and movements to evoke the poetic potentials in everyday objects. Four performers dramatically shift the stage room by seemingly simple actions that invite the audience to associate. In this way, the work proposes a way of being together through collective imagination. Skimmed Words is co-produced by Dansehallerne and premieres at Dansekapellet in Nov 2023. It is a collaborative project, made and performed by Antonia Harke, Andreas Haglund, Stina Ehn and Denise Lim. All graduates from the Danish School of Performing Arts, the artists belong to a generation of new voices within the Danish context for dance, carving ways for what the artform can look like and do. Prior to the premiere at Dansekapellet, the production will take place at MDT in Stockholm, Dansstationen in Malmö and Dance-Coop in Valby. The project thus connects the scene for dance in Copenhagen to an international dimension -an exchange that aims to bring dance on the highest level to Denmark. Please note that the budget attached gives an overview of the total costs for the project. This application concerns the activities within Copenhagen Municipality. |
