Every few years, a city seems to rediscover its underground pulse through a party that quite literally sets the scene. In Copenhagen, that role is increasingly held by Unearth, a night on everyone's lips that feels like a natural extension of the city's alternative DNA.

At Unearth's latest event, a very online lineup of The Twins, Double Virgo, and Helen Sun played IRL at Hangaren. What we found was a fashion-savvy crowd that loves a good time, but cares just as much about where it happens: right here in their city.
