The work is part of the Cph Art Week's program of art in public space, presented under the theme SOUND & VISION. Duett after Francis Alÿs, Copenhagen takes form of one live performance and subsequently of a film work that will be featured on different digital platforms (website, social media) for the entire duration of the Copenhagen Art Week as well as presented as a videoinstallation at Gl. Strand. The work takes place in two different places, namely the Medical Museion (indoor, where the film is produced) and Amagerfælled (outdoor, accessible by the audience). Each performance explore how the human body navigates through sound and spatial acoustics. During the performance, the two musicians move throughout rooms and spaces, playing and listening in an acoustic dialogue with the physical architecture and landscape looking for the other performer's music. The two musicians play two different instruments of a new two-voice composition composed by Johannes Lund.
